

"NUT FACTORY" JUDGE CALLED STERLING H. S.

Seven Boys Held to Grand Jury for
"Hazing."

The Sterling township high school was likened to a "nut factory" by Justice of the Peace I. L. Weaver, a brother of Mrs. John H. Byers of this city, Saturday afternoon when seven upper classmen of the institution were arraigned before him on charges of "willful and unlawful hazing" under which charge each boy was held under $1,000 bonds to await the action of the April grand jury of the Whiteside county circuit court.

The boys whose "pranks" have gotten them into serious trouble are: Isadore Saffren, 17; William Schumaker, 16; Martin Carlson, 17; Fred Wagner, 17; Charles Roberts, 17; Mortimer Smith, 17 and Fred Bell, 18. Wagner, whose father is head of the E. & W. clothing house in Sterling, was one of the boys who was expelled from school last fall for breaking into the school building one night and piling all school books into a heap on the floor of the assembly room and doing some damage to equipment in the building.

They Hazed Freshmen

The arraignment of the boys to answer criminal charges was the result, it is said, of attempts of some of the boys of the junior and senior classes in the Sterling institution to inject a "college atmosphere" in the school. For several weeks, it was charged, the boys of the upper classes have been threatening dreadful "initiation ceremonies" to the boys of the freshmen class who entered the high school in January.

Opportunity to "initiate" the freshmen during school hours failed to present itself and Friday afternoon, it was charged at the preliminary hearing before Justice Weaver, the seven defendants guarded the exits of the school building and gathered in the school yard. For several weeks, it was charged, the boys of the upper classes have been threatening dreadful "initiation ceremonies" to the boys of the freshmen class who entered the high school in January.

The five victims testified that they were dragged to the foot of Fourth Ave. by their captors, were there blindfolded and that clippers were then run through their hair, irregular streaks from which all hair was removed, being cut.

Parents of the victims, thoroughly aroused at this culmination of rowdiness which has been reported from the high school for several weeks, consulted State's Attorney J. J. Ludeen Saturday with the result that the seven boys have been called to face charges conviction on which is punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment not exceeding six months in the county jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

"The proposal to drive the Turks out of Constantinople is a concession to religious fanaticism and if the Turkish administration is removed from the city the bitterest resentment will manifest itself in India and all Mussalman countries," he said.

BISBEE DEPORTATION TRIALS START TODAY

Kidnapping of Copper Miners in 1917 Cause of Actions.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Tombstone, Ariz., Feb. 2.—The Bisbee "deportation trials" set to begin here today are expected to develop the hardest-fought legal battle in the history of Arizona. The litigation resulted from the deportation of 1,186 striking copper mine workers and their sympathizers from Bisbee, Ariz., to New Mexico on July 12, 1917.

More than 200 defendants, among them many of the most prominent citizens of Bisbee and vicinity have been summoned to appear in the superior court here to answer charges on kidnapping in connection with the deportation. Harry S. Wheeler, former sheriff of Cochise county, who has taken upon himself sole responsibility for the deportation; mine managers, superintendents and foremen; bankers, merchants and professional men are among defendants.

Judge Samuel L. Pattee, of Pima county, who has been designated to preside, first gained prominence by revising and codifying the laws of Arizona after her admission to statehood.

Officials of the county attorney's office are understood to have traveled through many western states gathering depositions from the men who were deported.

Third Action Pending.

Preliminary examinations were held in Douglas last year. These were followed by a trial in the federal court at Tucson of 20 leaders in the financial and industrial life of Bisbee, Douglas and Warren on indictments charging conspiracy to deprive a citizen of his rights in violation of the penal code. The defense raised a question of the court's jurisdiction in that case and it was sustained with the result that the trial of 200 or more, instead of the 20 alleged leaders, was undertaken in the state courts.

A third action is pending. It is a civil proceeding for damages alleged to have been sustained by the deported men by reason of their deportation. The deportation of the 1,186 men followed a prolonged strike in the copper mines at Bisbee. Accusations were printed in the newspapers of the southwest that the strike was fomented by Industrial Workers of the World for the purpose of cutting off the production of copper needed by the Allied and Associated powers in the war against Germany.

Herded in Ball Park.

Sheriff Wheeler, who directed the deportations, declared at the time that all of the men deported were known to be members of the I. W. W., but an investigating committee reported that some of the deported men were not members of the I. W. W. but were business men and property owners who had lived in the district many years.

Fifteen hundred armed men under Sheriff Wheeler herded the strikers and sympathizers into the baseball park at Warren, examined each one, released those who promised to return to work, loaded the remainder, on a train of cattle cars and box cars, put guards on board and the train proceeded to a sidetrack at Hermanas, N. M., where it was left. United States troops on July 14 removed the strikers to a camp at Columbus, N. M., where they remained for several weeks until they finally drifted away. Two men, one a deputy sheriff, were killed in the roundup at Bisbee.

TREATY BATTLE IN SENATE NOW VIRTUALLY SURE

Lodge Plans to Get It Into Debate Next Monday.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Feb. 2.—Countering the democratic move to take up the peace treaty again in the senate, republican leaders today gave notice that they would formally ask to bring the treaty up for debate next Monday, one day earlier than the democrats had decided on.

The development was regarded as practically assuring another long period of discussion.

In giving the notice in the senate, Senator Lodge, the republican leader said he would first ask unanimous consent to proceed to "consideration of the treaty with reservations."

"I trust," he added, "that unanimous consent certainly will be given. In case it is not, I shall make the necessary motion to suspend the rules."

The announcement apparently took the democrats by surprise and the republican leader was asked to repeat it. Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona then asked: "Why withhold it so long? Why not move to take it up tomorrow or the next day?"

"I have given the matter consideration," replied Senator Lodge. "Many senators are absent and I desire to wait until they return."

It was predicted little opposition would ensue from any quarter.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Feb. 2.—A renewal of senate debate on the peace treaty next week was regarded as virtually assured today when republican leaders decided to join with the democrats in the movement to bring the treaty back into the open senate. Senator Lodge, the republican leader, planned to give notice today that he would move on next Monday to suspend the rules and proceed to consideration of the treaty. The democrats had already announced that they would make a similar motion on Tuesday of next week.

In the form proposed by Senator Lodge, the motion will require a two-thirds majority, but the general prediction was that more than that number would support it. Not only the republicans but some of the democrats were expected to support the motion. Some of the treaty's irconcilable foes are ready to vote to reopen the debate.

Should Senator Lodge's motion fail, however, the motion of the democratic leaders the following day will be in such form that only a majority would be necessary to pass it, the party leaders say. The democrats contend that no suspension of the rules would be necessary to take up the treaty and that position is expected to be upheld by Vice President Marshall. On appeal from his decision, a majority only would be needed to sustain him.

Ellis Island in Denial of Charge Made By Committee

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Feb. 2.—Authorities at Ellis Island today denied knowledge of "deplorable" conditions among families of extremists deported on the Buford or now held in deportation proceedings, as charged by the American Women's Committee, which announces it will make efforts in Washington to have these dependents assisted.

"I know of nobody deported on the Buford who was actually married according to the laws of the various states of this country," said Percy A. Baker, superintendent of the island. "There may have been some who claimed that they were married but I do not believe they could have produced any proof. Anyhow, I know of nothing in the immigration laws that provides that marriage shall relieve any alien from deportation."

Of more than 600 persons sent to the island after raids last month only two have claimed at hearing before immigration inspectors that they were married, Mr. Baker said.

DIXON SCHOOLS HIT HARD BY SICKNESS

The attendance of the public schools has suffered a sharp decline during the last week. This is due to what appears to be an epidemic of la grippe. Some rooms have barely 50% of their enrollment. On Friday last ten teachers were absent because of illness; this morning there were eleven. Substitutes seem hard to secure and some rooms have been dismissed because of the lack of teachers. The epidemic seems to have struck hardest at the E. C. Smith school where four teachers and the janitor are away because of illness.

"BRAT THAT SHADDER!"

ANOTHER LEE CO. PIONEER CALLED TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Ellen Dysart Was Summoned By Maker
This Morning.

Mrs. Ellen Louisa Dysart, one of Lee county's oldest residents, passed away at her home, 321 Depot avenue this morning about 2 o'clock, death resulting from a lingering illness and infirmities of age. She had been an inmate of the city hospital for the greater part of this time being confined to her room.

Ellen Louise Crawford was born in Sinking Valley, Blair county, Pennsylvania, May 23, 1835 and was one of 11 children of James and Eunice Crawford. She was united in marriage to Captain John Dysart of Nachusa, March 9, 1865 upon his being mustered out of the service at the conclusion of the Civil War. The young couple came west to Nachusa where Captain Dysart was engaged in the grain buying business in the village, and for several years made their home at that place. Several years ago they moved to Dixon, where Captain Dysart continued in the buying and selling of grain and cattle.

Her husband passed away Dec. 30, 1889. To the union seven children were born, five having died in infancy, and two daughters surviving, as follows: Miss Blanche Dysart, who resides at the home and has cared for her mother during the many years of her affliction and Mrs. C. C. Buckaloo of Nelson township. One sister, Mrs. Dr. W. H. Morrow of Bellwood, Pa., also survives, together with three grandchildren, Sidney, Eleanor and Warren Buckaloo of Nelson township.

When Captain Dysart and his bride came west to Nachusa she united with the Presbyterian church in this city and throughout her life was one of its active members and was a regular attendant at the church services to the time that failing health prevented her leaving her home. The funeral, which will be private, will be conducted from the late residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. M. Tidball officiating, and interment will be made in Oakwood.

COUNCIL MAY ACT IN HEALTH CRISIS

Conditions in Dixon to Receive Consideration
Tuesday.

Some action will doubtless be taken by the city council at its regular session tomorrow evening, relative to the health conditions of the city, and the spread of bad colds, grippe and influenza within the limits of the city and the surrounding territory may be considered at this time. The physicians of the city are taxed almost to the limit in making calls, prescribing for patients residing in the city and many more who live many miles in the country.

It is rumored that there are many quarantinable cases in the city at present and each day the police department receives a list where families are to be quarantined. Many of the rooms of the city school are closed on account of teachers being absent on account of sickness. In the other grades there is a marked absence of pupils on account of sickness. No less than eleven of the grades in the city public schools are effected today, many of these being closed and the pupils sent home.

Many Rural Schools Close.

County Supt. L. W. Miller stated this afternoon that he had no way of telling just how many of the rural schools throughout the county are closed on account of sickness. Teachers have been compelled to give up their duties, dismiss their classes and close up the buildings. "There is a great deal of sickness in the country schools among the teachers and the pupils as well," he said. The health condition is very bad at this time.

It is expected that the council at its meeting tomorrow evening will outline some plan to stem an epidemic of disease in this city. Orders for private funerals may be one of the first steps taken by the city body.

CHICAGO BANK HEAD MAY LOOSE HIS PANTALOONS

Trousers Are Accused of Being "Vehicle" for Booze.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Feb. 2.—The United States district court has been asked to decide whether the trousers of Charles N. Thomas, Chicago bank president, are a "vehicle," and if they are whether they should be confiscated by the government and sold at auction.

Mr. Thomas was arrested Saturday night in cabaret when he produced a bottle of liquor from his pocket and concealed highballs for himself and three companions.

Federal prohibition against who made the arrest maintain the use of the hip pocket to carry liquor makes Mr. Thomas' trousers a vehicle within the meaning of the dry law and that the garment is subject to seizure and sale.

Mr. Thomas, who was refused bail and has been in jail since Saturday night, will be taken before a United States commissioner today. He is president of the Commonwealth Trust & Security company.

Decision in the case will affect carriers of hip pocket flasks throughout the country.

GOVERNMENT'S CASE OUTLINED TO JURY TODAY

Dist. Attorney Made Opening Address in Newberry Case.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 2.—The fraudulent election conspiracy which the government charges against United States Senator Newberry and his co-defendants had its inception in New York in 1917, according to the opening statement which Frank C. Dailey, assistant attorney general, made to the jury in United States district court here today. He named Senator Newberry and Frederick Cody, whom he described as "a legislative agent for large corporations, particularly the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and the American Book Company," as the men who made the "preliminary arrangements." He added:

"They had determined to purchase the United States senatorship in Michigan for Mr. Newberry."
Mr. Dailey told the jury that the senator was then on "patriotic work" in New York City as a lieutenant commander in the navy, adding that the American Book Company, was largely controlled by the Barnes family to which Mr. Newberry was related by marriage.

"A Barrel Campaign."

Mr. Dailey said that Cody was commissioned to hire a manager for the campaign and that J. G. Hayden, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News, was offered $500 a month but refused the position because "he did not want that kind of a job." Mr. Dailey said solicitation of Hayden ceased suddenly after the latter had advised Mr. Newberry "not to conduct a barrel campaign."

Mr. Dailey then shifted the scene to Detroit where he said in February there was a conference of Michigan politicians known as "Cody men." This conference, he said, selected Paul H. King, one of the defendants, as manager of the campaign.

"During the campaign," said Mr. Dailey, "Mr. King visited practically every county in Michigan. He employed many general agents and paid out a vast sum of money."

Much Advertising.

The prosecutor then sketched the publicity campaign of the Newberry organization, charging that they sought advertising space in "every newspaper and magazine in the state." He named several publications in which he said the advertising appeared, including Russian, Finnish, Italian and Hungarian newspapers, "and some published in the German language."

He then turned to the moving pictures, saying that Thomas R. Phillips of Detroit, one of the defendants, was sent to New York to negotiate for them.

"Phillips purchased about 1,000 feet of an old film showing a review of the United States navy," said Mr. Dailey. "The subtitles were changed so as to make the pictures applicable to the propaganda for which they were intended. Mr. Phillips also employed a moving picture company to take 125 feet of new film."

"Mr. Newberry posed in various attitudes."

DID HE, OR DID HE NOT, SEE SHADOW?

Believers in the old-fashioned signs expected today to bring forth prediction as to the further extent of the winter-of which "most everyone" hereabouts has had one fill—for this is "Groundhog Day" and on the four-legged prophet's ability to see his own shadow when he emerged from his hole depended weather conditions for the next six weeks, according to the "faith."

The morning was largely cloudy, but there are those who affirm most affirmatively that if Mr. Groundhog got up at the hour industrious Dixonites usually roll out he found enough sunshine to cause his shadow to be cast before him, that the aforesaid shadow frightened him into a hurried and unstrategic retreat into his hole and that therefore six weeks of severe winter weather are in the offing for immediate delivery to a suffering people.

Corn Supply Small; Close Some Higher

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Some weakness in the corn market resulted today from the reported opening of Russia to foreign trade. Mild weather and bearish views in regard to financial conditions counted also as depressing factors. On the other hand, possibilities of a strike of railroad employees led to scattered buying at times and so too did an advance in the price of Canadian wheat. Opening corn quotations which ranged from 5¢ decline to 1/8¢ gain with May 1.35 to 1.36½ and July 1.32½ to 1.32½, were followed by moderate setbacks in the active distant deliveries, but relative firmness in nearby months.

Oats were governed by the changes in corn. After opening unchanged to 1/8¢ higher, including May at 83½¢ to 84½¢, the market underwent a general ease.

Provisions reflected surprise at the large amount of live stock which the government reported on farms. The estimate was much heavier than the trade had looked for.

Subsequently covering by shorts led to rallies. Farmers continued to hold out for $1.50 per bu. at loading stations, and the visible supply total was the smallest at this time in many years. Prices closed firm at the same as Saturday's close to 1¢ higher, with May 1.35½ to 1.36 and July 1.32½ to 1.32½.

titudes in the new film. He went to a battleship located on dry land in a New York park and stood on the bridge of the ship and turned slowly to face the audience while the camera caught him in this attitude.

"He next played that he was paying a visit of inspection to this battleship."

Appealed for Enlistments.

"To divert attention from the fact that the film was Newberry advertisement, and render it more misleading, the film terminated with an appeal for enlistments in the navy."

The prosecutor read a telegram which he said was sent in September, 1918, to Col. Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay bidding for his approval of the Newberry candidacy. He said this telegram was signed "Newberry Volunteer Committee, Charles A. Floyd, secretary."

The telegram stated that $176,000 had been contributed to the campaign by many subscribers but, according to the prosecutor, the campaign statement of the committee showed that five contributors alone gave $169,900 and named John S. Newberry, a defendant and brother of the senator, Mrs. Henry B. Joy, a sister, and her husband, and Victor Barnes and Lyman E. Smith, of the American Book company.

Charge Many Gratuities.

Mr. Dailey said the money went for automobiles and halls, workers at the polls, votes, banquets, liquor, cigars and flowers. He charged that some custodians of money used it to pay personal debts. There was also, he said, a system of gratuities. A $50 bill was placed in a book so that it could be found by one citizen and a banker was given $500 for his influence, the prosecutor charged.

"They employed men to work particularly among railroad unions," said Mr. Dailey. "They paid the editor of a railroad magazine for articles in the magazine and gave him additional money to attend meetings of the union over the state."

"They irritated themselves into the churches wherever possible by the use of money," continued Mr. Dailey.

"On Opposite Party."

"The defendants wasted a great deal of money in an attempt to control the nomination of the opposite party," he continued. "They arrived at the conclusion that the defendant, James W. Helme, would be a suitable opponent to Mr. Newberry in the election and hired the defendant, William Mickel, to induce Mr. Helme to become a senatorial candidate on the democratic ticket."

Mr. Dailey charged that Mickel was later told by Charles Floyd that Samuel O'Dell, a defendant, had paid Helme $2,000 to enter the race.

Mr. Dailey said the Newberry organization got up the petitions by which Mr. Helme's name was placed on the democratic ticket, managed his campaign and "paid Helme a weekly salary."

"While these things were transpiring in Michigan, there was constant communication with Mr. Newberry in New York," said Mr. Dailey. He asserted the evidence would show that neither the report of the committee nor their books gave a true account of the receipts and expenditures, that county chairmen and secretaries who received from $50 to $1,200, "were asked to make reports showing that they received from $150 to $200" and that no mention was made of the amounts "expended in behalf of James W. Helme."

FEWER DIVORCES HER SLOGAN YET WOMAN LAWYER GETS ONE

Preaches Happiness, But Fails to Find It.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 31.—"If women would go into marriage with their eyes open, and if men, who are practical in all other things, would anticipate a general readjustment of their code of living when they bestow on their lady love the plain little circlet, divorces would be the exception, not the rule. In my opinion, there is no man some woman could not be happy with."

So spoke Miss Tiera Farrow lawyer, some three years ago, when she was appointed the first woman divorce proctor in the United States by a judge in the Jackson county circuit court. But Miss Farrow's philosophy of marriage received a jolt that caused gossip to "run wild" recently when she appeared before the tribunal that appointed her "divorce proctor" and appealed to Judge Burney to grant her a decree of divorce.

Surprised Them All

Her action was just in the reverse of her prediction. And even the judge was surprised. The courthouse clerks, other judges and court reporters stampeded Judge Burney's court to hear the former divorce proctor's plea for really Miss Farrow was the last person they ever dreamed of that would apply for a divorce.

"Then came the story—her story—of how cruel her husband had been during the period of their married life. "Why, judge," she declared, "no refused to establish a home. He didn't want children. He would take me from one town to the other, leaving me at cheap rooming-houses. He allowed me 39 cents a day for lunch. He neglected me for weeks at a time."

As Miss Farrow ended her plea for separation, she burst into tears.

Grants the Decree

Then the judge looked down upon the woman who had, during her term

Dwight Hartzell Conducting Campaign in Texas City.

An Austin, Tex., paper of recent date contained the following article concerning Dwight Hartzell, former Ashton young man, and a brother of Lex Hartzell and nephew of Frank H. Messer of this city:

"Eat More Lamb," is the slogan of a campaign being conducted in Austin by D. W. Hartzell, representing Swift & Co.

Mr. Hartzell has been before the domestic science department of the John T. Allen High School, and the home economics department of the University of Texas, cutting the carcass of a lamb in the Chicago standard method, and showing the value of the different cuts and the uses of the cheaper cuts for which there is little demand.

Demonstration for Butchers.

Austin butchers met at Swift & Co.'s branch house Wednesday evening and witnessed a practical demonstration of the various ways lamb may be cut to add to the attractiveness of the product and make it more palatable.

Mr. Hartzell will go before the domestic science department of the Austin Senior High School Friday, and on Monday he will meet with the Austin Housewives' League at the Austin Chamber of Commerce.

It is said that butchers will specialize in lamb meat and lamb will be served at every eating place in Austin.

Farmers Raise More Lambs.

Mr. Hartzell said Thursday farmers were raising more lambs throughout the country, and that he was working closely with sheep breeders' association in the endeavor to secure better breeds of sheep.

He attributes the small demand for the meat to improper methods of cooking, and believes the small demand for the meat is responsible for the short wool supply in the United States.

Saturday closed the hunting season for this year. It will be unlawful to shoot rabbits or any wild game or birds. Trapping of fur bearing animals is permitted up to March 15th. Hunters say the season which has just closed has been one of the most successful in the history of the state and there was an abundance of rabbits for the hunters. The long continued cold spell with heavy snow protected the cotton tails to a great extent.

Besides running the risk of arrest and prosecution, persons who hunt the cotton tails during the closed season get a very inferior article, as the rabbits in spring and summer are thin and their flesh is not a good food.

SPECIAL S. S. SERVICE—

On Sunday morning in the Methodist church at Franklin Grove, Ill., unique services were held. The hour, usually set aside for morning worship, was given over to the consideration of Sunday school work, with installation of the new officers and teachers of the Sunday school.

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson, the recently installed pastor, called each officer and teacher to the altar, there giving specific directions in regard to the work for the new year and at the same time, presenting each with a card containing his message.

Short talks followed by a number of the Sunday school officers in regard to the work each would like to see accomplished this year. Mr. Blocher, the superintendent, told of his desires for the young men and boys of the Sunday school; Mrs. Johnson spoke of the primary department work and spiritual needs of the school, and Miss Vicker suggested that the pupils of the Sunday school should show greater interest in the Sunday school by increased study of the lessons and a better attendance.

Mrs. H. H. Stewart spoke of the many young men and boys in the Methodist constituency who should be brought into the Sunday school.

W. R. C. SERVICE—

Saturday afternoon the following past presidents of the Woman's Relief Corps of Dixon, Mesdames Mitchell, Youngman, Read and Stockpole, and Mrs. Julia Myers chairman of the floral committee, met the remains at the depot of their departed sister, Mrs. Sarah Brubaker, and escorted it to its final resting place in Oakwood cemetery. There Mrs. Read sang an appropriate selection and a silk flag and flowers were placed upon the casket in loving remembrance. Mrs. Brubaker was a charter member of the Dixon Woman's Relief Corps and served as president during the second year of its organization in 1894. Although Mrs. Brubaker has been absent from Dixon several years, she never lost interest in the Dixon corps and kept her membership here. The corps is grieved to see the charter members pass away as the realization of what they have meant to the corps in its infancy and all through the passing years is keenly felt.

FOR FIFTH BIRTHDAY—

Little Miss Cecile Hamilton, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. A. Hamilton, of Chicago, who is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Woolever, celebrated there on January 27th her fifth birthday anniversary by entertaining a number of her little friends at a birthday luncheon. She was assisted in entertaining by her older sister, Jean. The decorations for the affair were most attractive, all in pink and white, with pink carnations as the flowers. Nut cups matched in shade the flowers and the cake, bearing five candles, beautifully carried out the color scheme. Each child was given a pretty favor. The afternoon was one of unalloyed delight for the little ones. The guests included John Reynolds, Robert Sterling, Jr., Dorothy Rath, Phyllis Teeter, James Tidball, Jr., Marvel Schoenholz.

W. C. O. F. PARTY—

On Thursday evening the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters entertained with a delightful dancing and card party in K. C. hall. About one hundred fifty people were in attendance and spent the larger portion of the evening in dancing. Three tables at cards were formed and Miss Elizabeth McCoy was winner of the head prize. Refreshments were served during the evening. A similar affair is planned to be held in two weeks.

ST. LUKE'S AUXILIARY—

The February meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Episcopal church will be held on Friday, Feb. 6th, in the guild rooms. The program on "Music" will be in charge of Mrs. Herbert W. Martin. The topic "Missions among the Negroes" will also be discussed. Tea will be served.

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

In the kitchen of her own home Sister Mary cooks daily for a family of four adults. She brought to her kitchen an understanding of the chemistry of cooking, gained from study of domestic science in a state university. Consequently the advice she offers is a happy combination of theory and practice. Every recipe she gives is her own, first tried out and served at her family table.

What little girl or boy doesn't thrill over an invitation to a Valentine party? The sentiment is as old as "Ann." For a children's party red hearts and chubby cupid's may run riot. Decorate the dining room and table with hearts of all sizes. Tiny figures shooting their bows and arrows might carry the place cards and serve as favors.

Make cookies in the shape of hearts, mold the ice cream in hearts, make the sandwiches in hearts, everything that you serve either trim with tiny hearts or make it a heart. The kids' hearts will be filled with delight and it will be a game for them to count how many things have been hearts and how many more there may be.

Heart-shaped patty pans may be used for tarts or individual cakes. The salad could be molded in a large mold and garnished with tiny beet hearts or molded in the useful patty pans.

Menu for Children's Party.
Creamed salmon on toast, bread and butter sandwiches, beet pickles, heart cakes, raspberry gelatine, hot chocolate.

My Own Recipes.
Cut home pickled beets in the shape of hearts saving the trimmings for a salad for the family. The red of the beets carries out the color scheme. The salmon with pimentoes in it also gives the red note and is not too indigestible for young tummies. The bread and butter will taste like a party if made into sandwiches shaped like hearts and the dessert repeats the color.

CREAMED SALMON.

1 cup rice.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 cups milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon paprika.
1 cup grated cheese.
1 large can salmon.
Triangles of toast.

Make a white sauce of the milk, flour, butter. Season with salt and paprika. The paprika will give a pink cast to the sauce and will not spoil the taste. Add rice and cook until tender. Add cheese and cook until men to sauce and heat over hot water. Pour over toast. Pimentoes may be added or not. If used add with salmon. This will serve 6 or 8.

HEART CAKES.
2 cups powdered sugar.
½ cup butter.
1 cup milk.
2½ cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
4 egg whites.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ teaspoon salt.
Cream butter and sugar. Sift flour and baking powder together 4 or 5 times. Add alternately with milk to butter and sugar adding flour first.

THE WOMAN WHO LOVED--AND EARNED

By JANE PHELPS

A Modern Story of Home and Business

MARY TELLS JERRY PLAIN TRUTHS Chapter 45

Mary while often using slang, had never before been profane. I was so astonished when she called me a "damn fool" that for a moment I could not gather my wits to answer. Then I said:

"If I am, you needn't swear, and you might tell me in what way I am such a fool?"

"Why didn't you go to that picnic?"

"Because I didn't want to! I would have been bored to extinction."

"Was that all the reason you stayed home? Honest Injun?"

"Cross my heart! I don't know anyone in the store, and so of course I know none of their wives or sweethearts. So I told Robert to go with me. My vacation comes next week, too, and I hated to ask Madame for a whole day off only a week before I go away."

"So you sent your husband off to spend a blissful day with another woman. No wonder I said you was a

"Don't say it again! But just the same I can't see why you always talk as if I ought to do things I don't want to do, because of Robert. He doesn't want me to go places or do things that bore me."

"It would be better if he did. I mean you would be safer."

"Safer?"

"Yes. No woman is safe whose husband don't care what she does. Take little Mary's word for that. If you had gone, Robert wouldn't have asked Marion Hovey. Then they couldn't have spent that long blissful day together. Then days ain't safe for a married man, Jerry, honest to goodness they ain't!"

"Nonsense! Didn't I tell you Bob urged me to go? It was only because he didn't want to go alone that he asked Marion. It didn't cost him anything you see; the firm paid for everything."

"I wonder, did they? I wonder if they paid for the heartaches some of the wives of them clerks will have later because they was too selfish to go with their husbands when they asked them?—It was really nice in them to treat their clerks."

"What a funny girl you are!" I replied, a bit impatiently. Talking about heart aches being paid for by the Colding Company. Do be sensible, Mary!"

"Ain't I sensible? I thought I was. You see you want Robert to do good work, don't you?"

"Of course I do. Any wife does, I guess."

"Well he, no man can't unless they're contented. And no man ain't contented living like you and Bob lives."

"That flat has turned your head!" I returned, now really annoyed at Mary. Ever since she rented it she had preached the joys of home to any one she could get to listen to her. All the girls in the shop teased her about it.

"Mary's getting ready to take care of a husband," one of the girls mocked.

"Not on your life, Lucy, guess again! Little Bright Eyes don't take care of no man—not unless he's sick or something. Not even a husband. But there's one thing sure. If I ever find a man who can be fooled into marrying me, I'll know how to make a home for him."

"Kids and all!" I suppose.

"Bet your life Lucy! What is home without a baby? Now if you girls think you can rag-dazzle me by poking fun, you're mistaken. I am going to learn to cook, and to keep house, I may never have any chance to show off what I've learned; but if I do, just watch out."

I used to listen and smile at Mary when she talked this way. She was so earnest, so honest. Once I repeated some of her nonsense to Robert, and he said:

"Mary's got the right idea. She'll make some man a fine wife."

But I said nothing to Robert of what she had said about his taking Marion to the picnic, nor did I tell him what she had called me. That night he didn't get in until after midnight I was in bed, and he said he was too tired to talk; had had a lovely time, and would tell me all about it in morning.

Tomorrow—The Picnic's Aftermath

Do It Electrically

Master minds and the most ingenious inventors have spent years perfecting the different utensils shown here. And it was time well spent, for it has brought to the housewife easier and better ways of doing her work.

In time, Electricity will predominate in the home as it does now in the business world. Why don't you take advantage of these time and labor-saving helps now?

You are cordially invited to come in and look them over. We will gladly show them to you and explain just how they work.

Their convenience more than justifies their cost.

THE NEWER HABITS.

In an editorial upon the official closing of the steel strike, the Iron Age—representative of the proprietary and managerial interests of the metal trades—makes the sane observation:

"There should be more every-day use of the very methods that in the Liberty Loan campaign brought employers and men into such admirable co-operation during the war. Then the differences in social and property status were lost sight of in the recognition of a man-to-man footing."

It is universally recognized in industry that the pre-war conditions cannot be re-established so far as wages, prices, competition and freedom from government control and interference are concerned. The war spells finis to a period whose books are closed. We are at the beginning of a new era, and one of the inevitable developments of the epoch is the reform of the relations between employers and employees. The signs are evident enough in the organization of shop committees, the spread of the so-called employee representation plan, the encouragement of co-operative buying, the experiments in profit-sharing, the forming of bureaus to study living conditions, the loans to home builders and, in more than one industrial plant, the founding of schools for teaching economics and a higher technology.

The fine spirit which the common danger brought to the surface during the war is seemingly submerged today. But we suspect that it is working steadily, even if half-secretly, toward a comradeship between the employers and the workers. A great movement involving revolutionary changes is least seen when we are in the midst of it.

SCORN OR LOVE.

What would you say is the most foolish of all things?

A new book of fables for grownups by H.
Anthony is named "The Most Foolish of All Things." The author shows by one of the fables that the most foolish of all things is scorn, scorn of one's fellows.

It's a fact. But the pity is so few persons learn it young enough.

He might as well have said the most desirable of all things is friendship, the ability to love one's fellows.

Find the man who has the most friends and you find the happiest man, whether he is rich or poor in worldly goods. The fact that his fellows love him is proof that he has shown his love for them. He must have won their respect by his example of upright living. He must have won their affection by service to them, by charity toward their faults, tolerance toward their peculiarities.

It is a grievous fault to refuse to love a man because you do not approve of him entirely. No mother ever loved a son less because of his faults. No man should love his fellows less because of their weaknesses.

AN AMERICAN INVASION.

The Ford and Overland motor car companies have invaded the United Kingdom and British companies have formed a trust, or co-operative association, to produce a low priced car in an effort to ward off the American invasion. It will pay the British to buckle in for a mighty struggle for the Ford company announces its intention of making 50,000 cars annually and the Overland company starts with a capitalization of $10,000,- 000 and ambitious plans. The mighty achievements of both concerns in the United States presage anxious times for the English manufacturers. Quantity production is the battle cry of the Americans. Standardization, shop efficiency and the substitution of machines for hand methods are lessons learned in the United States long ago. English plants got through primer classes during the war, but they are still miles behind American quantity methods of production. It requires no great imagination to foresee the outcome of the struggle in England or to picture the revolution of British industry which the invaders will force.

THANKS, BROTHER BENT.

Under the caption, "Dixon's Paper Improves," Editor Bent of the Whiteside Sentinel of Morrison, Illinois, has the following article regarding the recent improvements in The Telegraph, in his paper:

"The Dixon Daily Telegraph has just installed a sixteen-page Goss rotary press, one that prints from stereotyped plates instead of type, which is the most important improvement in that office since the paper was founded in 1851. They have also added many fine special features for daily issue, including special articles and features, cartoons, news pictures, etc. The publishers of the Telegraph are to be congratulated upon their enterprise, for it is rare that a city the size of Dixon has such a finely equipped newspaper office, one that also gives a full Associated Press report."

DIVERTING UNDESIRABLES.

Forty-five thousand immigrants are arriving monthly in the United States and with the approach of peace and the resumption of shipping activities the number will increase.
There is wisdom in the request of the state department for an additional $450,000 to enforce the provisions of the passport supervision law. The process of diverting undesirables from our shores can best be done on the other side of the water. Close supervision of passports in countries across the sea by agents of the state department will simplify the task of keeping improper residents out of the country, will prevent congestion at ports of entry, will free badly needed ocean tonnage for other purposes and will save the large sums which in the past have been spent in this country in investigations and deportations.

Europe's apprehension over the delay in America's signing the peace treaty reminds one of the poor relation's worry over the health of a robust rich uncle.

It would be a mean trick to leave some wood alcohol in the cellar for a decoy for these booze thieves.

"Oh, the skinny ones were knobby.

And since I gazed upon them, I am sad and I am sobby."

The stranger had a wild, wild look, a wild, wild look had he.
And such the song the stranger sang, the stranger sang to me.
He sang it in a wailing voice and in a minor key.
As one who has pursued a dream, a dream which may not be.

Then said I to the stranger-man "What means your mystic tune?"

Is there a symbol in your song, a riddle in your rune?
Or are you brother to the nut and smitten of the moon?
Again I heard his bitter wail, again I heard him croon:

"Oh, the skinny ones were knobby,
And the fleshy ones were gobby.
And since I gazed upon them, I am sad and I am sobby."

"Believe not I am mouthy and believe not I am mad;
But I am one betrayed—and by the Railroad Travel Ad.
I have journeyed from Morocco to the realm of the

I have sought the Riviera and the sands of Coronado.

At Palm Beach and at Petersburg, I've scouted and I've spotted.
And at Coney I have Coneyed and at Newport I've New-

But never never have I seen or shall see (it is fated!)
A maiden in a bathing suit as she is illustrated.

"Oh, the skinny ones were knobby,
And the fleshy ones were gobby.
And since I gazed upon them, I am sad and I am sobby."

"Oh, ever in the picture-ads, she looks a perfect peach.
As she tiptoes on the diving-board or lolls upon the beach.
The zephyrs kiss her lovelocks and they flaunt her scanty skirt.
And oh, she wears such fetching clothes, but not enough to hurt.

But when you see her bathing with her dragged hair and back,
And all the redness of her lips translated to her nose,
Oh, then you know your quest is dead, and know why I am sad

And know I am the victim of the Railroad Travel Ad.
"Oh, the skinny ones were knobby,
And the fleshy ones were gobby.
And ever since I've seen them, I am sad and I am sobby."

Were the Bandits
After Me Instead of Katherine Miller?

Morrison's language was often of an unquotable kind. He cursed the bandits with some of the choicest selections from his vocabulary because they had not made a claim on anybody for the ransom of Miss Miller and accompanied it with accurate directions for locating her. Morrison had collected his men and he assured Jim Jr. that some of them were the hardest nuts in Texas. Jim looked the bunch over and admitted that Morrison had done well.

The detective complained that his men were all dressed up but had no place to go which would satisfy the Mexican authorities as a logical goal.

At this point Bob and his mining papers came in handily.

Morrison's gang was to pass the frontier as a body of mining employees who had been engaged by Bob Lorimer to take a radio outfit and some valuable chemical apparatus to the assaying laboratory of the famous Lorimer property.

The party could take a train for a portion of the distance. Burros would be required to transport the goods and supplies over the mountain trails and passes. The men would camp out several nights and almost any kind of an accident could delay their progress. Thus they could search for the missing girl!

I begged to be taken along. I could go as well as not I said because I had wired Mrs. Chapin to come and take care of Eabs.

But not a single man in the crowd would listen to my plea! Bob was actually impatient because I made the suggestion! Jim tried to silence my hurst—as if I were a little girl—by promising to give me a few lessons in flying!

Hearing the suggestion, Bob shrugged his shoulders and I nearly cried because I wanted my husband to forbid me to run the risk!

Of course I couldn't weep for Morrison's eye was on me as he spoke: "You're about the last person I'd take along, Mrs. Lorimer."

"Why?" I asked abruptly.

"Well you see, I'll bet any money the rebels were after you when they got Miss Miller!" He said this very deliberately, and he looked from one of us to the other in great enjoyment of the sensation his words created.

"What?" chorused Bob and Jim while my heart leaped into my throat and stopped my speech.

"I'll bet you," nodded Morrison. And then he proceeded to elaborate his pet theory about the abduction. He believed that Germany was keeping the Mexican rebels stirred up and that the abductions of Americans which had lately been pulled off were solely for the purpose of making trouble between the United States and Mexico. Any little trouble would prove to Germany's advantage, if it could be developed into an affair of military importance.

"If the Mexican outlaws had seized the only daughter-in-law of the famous American multi-millionaire maker of munitions—a young and very beautiful lady—why, can't you see how her abduction would advertise the fact that they were raiding citizens of the United States? Every village paper would run her photo!"

"My God!" exclaimed Jimmy—at which I laughed. I wondered whether Jimmy was appalled at the danger which I had escaped, or at the idea of my "art," adorning the newspapers of the world.

"I'm surprised that you think it a laughing matter," remarked Bob quietly.

I hit my tongue to keep back a hot rejoinder. It was, of course, unfortunate that so much beauty had been sacrificed to save my little bunch of brains!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS GO TO HOUSEKEEPING

Queen rag-doll, or I should say, Ruby-Jean, as that was her name before Nancy lost her, was very kind to the children and promised to do all she could to help them hunt for their monkey in The Land of Lost Things.

"Of course he may not be here at all," she said "but you will have to stay long enough to be sure about it, anyway, and it's better to stay quite small as you children are right now so you can live in your peach-can house. Keep your magic green shoes on and there will be no trouble about that, I'm sure."

Then the magical mushroom poked out its head and said to Nancy "You'd better ask the queen for a chimney." Then he disappeared again.

But the queen had heard. "Oh, yes," she said hastily. "I have three presents for you to take along. Timothy, Tommy and Ted, come here," she cried, ringing a bell.

Three teddy bear servants in purple velvet came instantly.

"Timothy, you get the chimney for Nick and Nancy's house; Tommy, get the windows, and Ted, bring the porch. Then he called Can-opener, the carpenter.

The twins watched wide-eyed. How could teddy bears carry porches and things? But the mystery was soon solved. Timothy came, bringing a nice, new shiny funnel for a chimney; Tommy, a pair of grandma's lost spectacles for windows; and Ted carried a honey-comb for a porch. Then the twins watched wide-eyed still, oh, dear, such a word for a really truly can-opener came along in a blue check apron looking awfully business-like.

"Where to, your majesty?" he asked Queen Rag-Doll.

"Just take these things and fix up the house Nancy and Nick found," she commanded. "It's at number ninety-nine Somerset street."

earthed when a more liberal use is given Dr. Cotton's "new ether," which doctors say, will make a man tell the truth while under the ether's influence.

Wouldn't it be a fine thing to give a dose of this new ether to some of our leading presidential candidates and learn what they really are thinking back in their beans?

No use for lawyers, judges or juries after this. Give a suspected criminal a dose of this ether and he gives you all the details of the crime he committed. No police station will be complete without its quota of new ether to administer as fast as the cops drag 'em in.

And we ought to give Attorney Gen. Palmer a dose to find out when he's going to cut the cost of living for us.

Maybe we could soak the weather bureau's prediction in a jar of ether and not have to wait until next day to see if it's true.

Squire Abner Harpington would like to know if the new ether will make the Jan tell when he's going to let go of Shantung, and he thinks it ought to get some unadulterated information out of Soviet Russia.

It is only a question of time before some congressman introduces a bill requiring folks to take a dose of this new ether when they file their income tax reports.

Mrs. Tom Duff says now she'll find out why it is that Tom has to go to lodge meetings three nights a week when a fellow who lives next door and belongs to the same lodge only has to go once every other week.

This will save Bill Colver of the Federal Trade Commish, a lot of trouble digging into meat books. He can etherize the packers and find out how much they've been making out of the by-products.

The inability to tell a lie will no longer be a strictly Washingtonian possession; all of us will be in that boat.

In 1917 a labor shortage hit Pennsylvania. Carpenters were hard to get. One contractor offered the munificent wage of $20 a month, in vain. Then he offered $19 a month with "plenty of whiskey," and got all the men he wanted.

ENGLAND'S FOREIGN TRADE

In 1913 Great Britain set a mark for December exports which broke all records and was expected to stand for many years. The war interrupted the enormous business of the tight little isle with the rest of the world and it would be reasonable to suppose that England would be unable to come anywhere near the December 1913 mark until the burdens and losses of the war had been shifted to a more comfortable position. Yet this is exactly what England has done. Last month her exports were 120 per cent greater than during the same month in 1913. During the year 1919 her exports were worth $501,900,000 more than her foreign imports and the favorable trade balance is growing rapidly. The war has been over long enough to make several things certain and nothing is more positive than the fact that England is far from bankrupt and a long way from losing her foreign trade.—Exchange.

Miss Bess Kennedy went to Rochelle this morning after spending Sunday in Dixon. Miss Kennedy recently accepted a position as cashier in the Northwestern freight offices at Rochelle.

Uncle Sam

"UNCLE SAM, M. D., will answer questions of general interest relating to hygiene, sanitation, and the prevention of disease. Address: INFORMATION EDITOR, U. S. Public Health Service, WASHINGTON, D. C."

WHAT CAUSES INFLUENZA AND HOW IS IT SPREAD?

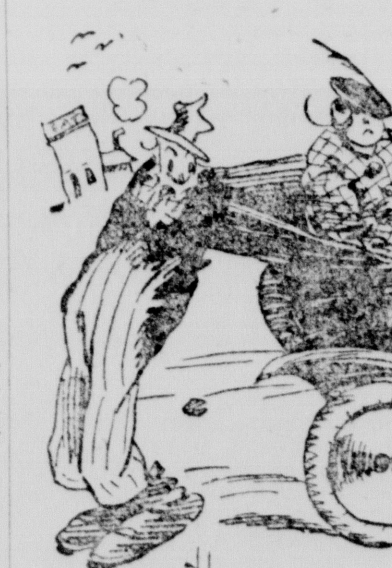

Bacteriologists who have studied influenza epidemics in the past have found in many of the cases a very small rod-shaped germ called, after its discoverer, Pfeiffer's bacillus. In other cases of apparently the same kind of disease there were found pneumococci, the germs of lobar pneumonia. Still others have been caused by streptococci and by other germs.

Several European observers, on the basis of experiments conducted during the last year's pandemic, believe that the germ of influenza is no ordinary bacterium but that it belongs to a class of exceedingly small germs spoken of as "filterable viruses," because they can pass through the pores of unglazed porcelain filters. Frankly, then, scientists are not yet agreed that the germ of influenza is really known.

No matter what particular kind of germ causes the epidemic, it is now known that influenza is spread directly and in directly from person to person. Moreover, judging from experience in other diseases, it is probable that the germ, whatever its nature, is carried about not only by those who are ill with influenza, but by persons who may be entirely well. Everything which increases personal contact, therefore, should be regarded as a factor in spreading influenza.

It is clear that there are many different ways in which such germs may be spread from person to person. Thus they may be spread quite directly by being carried with the air along with the very small droplets of mucus expelled by coughing, sneezing, forceful talking and the like, by one who already has the germs of the disease. To guard against this mode of spread the use of face masks has been advocated. Though the use of suitably constructed masks will reduce the interchange of respiratory germs through inhalation, it must be remembered that there are many other paths by which such germs are spread, either directly or indirectly. Soiled hands, common drinking cups, improperly cleaned eating and drinking utensils in restaurants, soda fountains, etc., roller towels, infected food—these are only few of the common vehicles of germ transmission. The use of face masks appears to make people neglect these other paths of infection and therefore such use has not been attended with the success predicted for them. If we would be more successful in combating influenza, greater attention must be paid to the other factors just enumerated.

HAMPSHIRE MAN NEW TESTER OF PALMYRA COW TESTING ASSN.

Assn. Starts Its New Year with Increased Interest.

G. E. Dickson of Hampshire, Illinois, has been secured to act as tester for the Palmyra Cow Testing Association in the coming year to succeed B. G. Tihen who will return to Urbana to finish his undergraduate work at the State Agricultural college. Mr. Dickson is a graduate of the University of Illinois and comes exceptionally well recommended by Mr. Rhode in charge of Cow Testing Associations.

Annual Meeting Held.
The association reorganized for its fourth year of successful, constructive work at a recent meeting of its members. This association was organized in February, 1917 and was the fourth one of its kind in Illinois. The cow testing association movement has, since that time, made a remarkable and steady growth until at present there are nearly thirty organizations in Illinois and over 400 in the whole country. The cow testing association has gained this well-earned popularity because thinking farmers and dairymen realize it is an important cog in the wheel of progress and as such is helping them in doing more accurate constructive work in building up a better herd; in weeding out unprofitable cows; in feeding economically for greater milk production; and in increasing the net returns from the dairy herd.

The following officers were unanimously elected for the year 1920:
President—Miss Besse E. Decker.
Vice Pres.—Cornelius Habben.
Sec.—Treas.—J. C. Wadsworth.

The number of directors serving on the governing board was decreased from eleven to seven, as follows: L. E. Birdsall, E. M. Detweiler, R. G. Proctor, Dan Ebersole, Jr., Besse E. Decker, C. Habben, J. C. Wadsworth.

Continuing Work.
With only a few exceptions, the entire membership of the association is continuing the work because the members realize that cow testing association records are valuable and constructive; that efficient and economical methods of feeding are necessary to make the dairy yield a profit, and that the increased interest which results in constant improvement pays large dividends which more than offset the membership fees.

Included in the following list of members are many of the better farmers, dairymen and breeders of this community, which is sufficient proof that the cow testing association is receiving the support of the more intelligent and wide-awake farmers of the country. The members for 1920 follow: Henry Hey, Hill Den Farm, E. H. Shawyer, G. G. Smith, Schwartz Brothers, J. C. Wadsworth, Fred Gilbert, Mrs. Mary Mossholder, C. L. Stauffer, R. G. Proctor, H. E. Downing, Ebersole and Wetzel, Richard Gassen, Cornelius Habben, G. M. Cassens, L. E. Birdsall, Hugh J. Brown, George Myers, Ralph E. Overholser, Fred R. Overholser, William H. Overholser, Fred Wadsworth, Jr., Mont H. Hawkey, William Weissen, George Wadsworth, E. M. Detweiler, Daniel K. Gilbert, Harry Gilbert, Eli R. Detweiler, Decker & Long.

"PRETTY BABY"

Jimmie Hodges' new 1919 version of "Pretty Baby," the big musical success will be the offering at the Dixon opera house. With the brilliant galaxy of true and tried favorites and a host of the prettiest and best dressed chorus seen in this city in years. They can sing and dance and the more they sing the more they dance.

"Pretty Baby" this season as in the past was written by Jimmie Hodges. He is the young master of comedy, the gifted writer of words and music for songs which have made him rich and envied.

For this season's entertainment he has written a laugh a minute guaranteed and introduced over a score of mad melodies, nearly all of them being the tickling sort, caught and whistled at every street corner and warranted to set a room full dancing.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF UNITED STATES TO ERECT MAGNIFICENT HOME IN CAPITAL

THE $2,500,000-BUILDING-TO-BE ERECTED IN WASHINGTON BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES IN COMMEMORATION OF THE PART TAKEN BY AMERICAN BUSINESS IN THE GREAT WAR. IT WILL BE A WORK-SHOP FOR AMERICAN BUSINESS IN THE SOLUTION OF ITS NATIONAL PROBLEMS. AT THE RIGHT IS SHOWN DANIEL WEBSTER'S WASHINGTON HOME WHICH WILL BE RAZED TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE NEW STRUCTURE.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has bought property in the heart of Washington, just across Lafayette Square from the White House, where it will erect a home for American business. The place, at the corner of Connecticut avenue and "H" street, is famous as the home of Daniel Webster. Francis Scott Key, W. W. Corcoran who founded the Corcoran Art Gallery, and other distinguished citizens, and in the house, which will be razed to make room for the new National Chamber home, many transactions have taken place that made a deep impression on the country's history.

The new structure, five stories high will cost approximately $2,500,000. The plans have been drawn by Cass Gilbert, who designed the Woolworth building and the U. S. Customs House, New York; the U. S. Treasury Annex, Washington, and other great edifices. Work will start this spring.

W. W. Corcoran purchased the property described from Daniel Webster in 1847, after the latter retired from public life. Corcoran and Webster were close friends. It is history, accepted as true, that the lots and the house were presented to Webster by friends, but there is nothing in the records to indicate a gift. The property was transferred to Webster by Robert Swann in 1844, one dollar being mentioned as the consideration.

In 1802 the property was assessed at two cents a square foot. The property then was a part of the town of Fort Royal. The "original proprietor" of the tract was Samuel Davidson whose title came in 1770 by authority of the Lord Baltimore grant. He willed it to Mary Pattison in 1805, and she deeded it to General James Breckinridge in 1817. Thomas Swann bought it in 1827 and seventeen years later sold it to Webster.

The National Chamber purchased the eight lots, known in Washington as "the old Corcoran place," for $750,000.

The new building not only will enable the National Chamber to maintain adequate offices for handling the business of the organization, but it also will afford a meeting place in Washington for all who are affiliated with the National Chamber. Members can make the Chamber's home their headquarters when they come to Washington, feeling that they have a place all their own to hang their hats.

VETERAN ATTORNEY LAID TO FINAL REST

Funeral of A. C. Bardwell
Was Held on Sunday Afternoon.

The funeral services for the late A. C. Bardwell were held Sunday afternoon at the home of his son, H. U. Bardwell, on East Second street, with burial in Oakwood. Rev. Tidball officiated, and the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. held their services. Many friends and relatives from Dixon and Sterling attended and Judge Ramsay and Hon. Charles Bent, of Morrison, were present.

The large attendance and many beautiful flowers and wreaths gave evidence of the esteem and love held for the veteran Dixon attorney. Besides the G. A. R. guard of honor, the pall bearers were: J. B. Crabtree, H. S. Dixon, E. E. Wingert, Charles Leake, Grover Gehant and G. B. Shaw.

The Telegraph is in receipt of the following tribute to Captain Bardwell from Charles Bent, veteran soldier and editor from Morrison:

"As I stood before the bier of my friend, the late A. C. Bardwell, at the home of his son in Dixon yesterday afternoon my mind reverted to the time I first knew him. It was in the year 1863 when he came from Prophetstown to Morrison to accept a post as clerk in the dry goods store of one of the leading merchants in the town. The following year he went to Dixon to reside. I next met him in 1865 as Captain of Company G, 147th Illinois Infantry volunteers, I being a lieutenant of Company B in the same regiment. During the summer of that year I was ordered to report from regimental headquarters at Albany, Ga., to Captain Bardwell, provost marshal at brigade headquarters at Americus, Ga., to act as assistant provost marshal. My association with him there was very pleasant and I quickly learned to admire him for his sterling qualities. Our years ever since have been filled with friendship.

"Captain Bardwell possessed a clean mind and a pure heart, being altogether one of the most delightful of men. He performed his life work with fine ability and always aided in the promotion of better citizenship. In fact he was a typical American citizen. I not only admired but loved him. Old friend of the years, Hall and farewell!"

MT. CARROLL NOW HAS YELLOW PAPER

Mt. Carroll has a yellow sheet, in appearance but not in reading matter. It is the same old story of paper shortage, brought right down to an absolute fact, not a thing of the future but a present reality. Cal Frazier, editor of the paper has the following to say about being forced to print his paper on yellow stock:

"We have been in the newspaper business a good many years, but were never up against it harder than today. Yesterday when no white paper came, we telegraphed for some yellow paper. This morning we were sure there would be enough paper for a couple of days, but there was none at the depot and no chance for it to come. Finally we secured a roll of wrapping paper from a local business house. As we use flat paper, we had to unroll the paper and cut it to size, but the paper curls up and as a small shipment of yellow paper arrived we will use that until we can get some white paper."

WAS A SURPRISE TO FARMER BOYD

Had Been Troubled More or Less for Thirty Years
—Feels Fine Since Taking Tanlac.

"I was just telling my wife the other day that this is the first time in twenty years I have felt like making ready for an old fashioned Christmas dinner," said John Boyd, a prosperous farmer, R. F. D. 1, Peoria, Ill., while telling on December 15, in Sutcliffe & Case's drug store of the remarkable benefits he had received from Tanlac. Continuing, he said:

"I have suffered more or less with stomach trouble for thirty years, and Tanlac is the only medicine that I have ever found that did me a particle of good, and this is saying a great deal for I have tried a lot of different kinds in that time. I had a burning in my stomach all the time and every few days I would have terrible spells of cramps, caused by something I ate, and I was always in misery. I had a very poor appetite and just had to force down every mouthful I ate, and I haven't been able to eat a single meal in all these thirty years with any satisfaction. I could get but little sleep as I was so restless I would just roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other all night long. I continued to get worse until I became so weak and run down I was unable to work and for months before I began taking Tanlac I hadn't been away from home, and it was all I could do to drag myself around at all.

"When I began taking Tanlac I had been in this condition so long and had tried so many different medicines without getting the least benefit from them I had given up all hope of ever getting any better; but only a few days after I started taking it I was a happy man, for I noticed I was getting better with every dose. I continued taking Tanlac and my appetite continued to improve until it was almost impossible for my wife to cook enough for me to eat and the best part of it all was that I could eat all I wanted and anything I wanted without suffering the least bit from it afterward. That burning in my stomach, those terrible cramping pains and the bloating left me so suddenly I was actually surprised. And sleep! Why I can sleep just as sound as a log all night long without ever waking up once, and always wake up feeling fine and full of energy and ready for my work. I have regained my strength so I can do as much work as I ever could. So you see why I am so anxious to get this bottle of Tanlac, for I owe all my good condition to it, and I never expect to be without it. There is nothing in the world I would take for what Tanlac has done for me, and I intend to praise it as long as I live."

TANLAC is sold in Dixon by Public Drug & Book Co., in Compton by W. N. Hills; in Franklin Grove by Geo. S. Ives; in Amboy by C. Aschenbrenner Pharmacy; in Ashton by G. R. Charters & Son.

15 EGGS A DAY FROM 23 HENS, IN WINTER

Mr. Duni's Hens Increased Every Day.
Plan is Easily Tried.

"We have 23 chickens and hadn't had an egg all winter. In five days after feeding Don Sung, we got four to five eggs a day; in three weeks, we were getting 10 to 12 eggs a day; in five weeks we got 15 to 19 eggs a day."—John Duni, Box 102, Cherry Valley, Pa. Mr. Duni started giving his hens Don Sung in January, in zero weather. He now keeps his hens busy in cold weather, when hens usually stop laying. A trial costs nothing. Here's our offer: Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 284 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Confetti Throwing at Paris Balls Taboo

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, Feb. 2.—Parisian society leaders who in the past have been famous for the brilliancy of their entertainments are making serious objection to orders issued by the prefect of police who has forbidden the throwing of confetti or "serpentes." Among those who have expression their indignation at the implied suggestion of such extravagance are Comtesse de Chabrilion and Princess Jacques de Broglie.

The comtesse declares she "would not think of issuing invitations to any kind of fancy dressball, while Princess de Broglie also opposes masked balls at this time, adding: "I am in favor of joining the organization of women pledged to buy nothing new for a couple of years."

FRENCH HONOR WOMAN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, Feb. 2.—President Deschanel and many persons prominent in political and social life gathered Saturday at a luncheon given in celebration of the award to Madame Rejane, the famous actress, of the Red Ribbon of the Legion of Honor. At the table, which was set in the entry hall of the theatre once owned by her, the president sat at her left, while Andre Honnarat, minister of public instruction, sat at her right.

In his address M. Honnarat recalled Alexandre Dumas' query: "When civilization makes up her accounts who knows if she will not perceive that those who have amused multitudes have done more for her than all the politicians who have pretended to conduct the world's affairs?"

Laxative Campho Quinine

Several days ago we spoke of the needlessness of colds—as well as their danger if allowed to run on. Too much cannot be said on that subject—it is so vitally important.

Colds are contagious—hence dangerous to others—at the same time that they are always aggravating and annoying to you as the sufferer. Colds are very apt, if neglected, to run into something else far worse.

As we said before, we now repeat, that colds are not likely to visit the person who is normally healthy. Plenty of fresh air, enough exercise, regular, open and free bodily functions—these things are the very best preventatives in the world for colds. No medicine can compare.

But we all, at times, get careless—and when we do neglect these things, a cold is very apt to be the result. If you get careless—at the first sign of a cold take Dr. Gordon's Campho Quinine. Relieve the cold right at the beginning before it has a chance to get started.

Dr. Gordon's Laxative Campho Quinine is a product developed through years of careful work in the laboratory as well as actual test in private practice. Get a box today—and be prepared in advance against colds—for only 25c the box from any of the following druggists:

WEST BROOKLYN.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Betz received word from Kansas City Saturday of the death of their son, Robert, who had been received the day preceding of his serious illness and Mrs. Betz left for that city at once but arrived a few hours too late. Robert had left to attend the winter term of the Ray Auto school some few weeks ago and was in perfect health but when the influenza broke out in the school he was one of the unfortunates to fall victim to the malady and owing to the condition of his heart succumbed to the dreadful disease. The remains were sent home Sunday and the funeral services were held privately at Mendota on account of the road conditions and internment was made at the Restland cemetery in that city. Robert was one of our progressive young men, graduating from the local high school a few seasons ago and was affiliated with the social clubs about town being of a jubilant nature and his absence will be deeply felt among his many young associates.

A. B. McCrea shipped a carload of porkers to market Monday.

Grover Carnahan was down from Compton Tuesday and portioned out a joint carload of oil meal which was sent through the farm bureau for the county, for use in fattening cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Gehant invited the youngsters of the primary room to their home Sunday afternoon where they entertained them with a party in honor of their son, Melvin's seventh birthday. The hostess served a dainty luncheon at 6 o'clock which satisfied the young folks' appetites and all report having had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. July have returned from Blunt, S. D., where they spent several weeks visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack July, who send their best regards to their many old friends here.

After completing an order to a mail order firm just stop and meditate. This is the twentieth anniversary of the birth of our village. A small band of country with a petition to the secretary of state to have our town incorporated. The object for taking in the farm lands was in order to get the necessary population, which was then not sufficient in the village proper, for such incorporation. It was to be as a stock company with each a stockholder; each deriving benefits that the would-be village would order. And why did we wish to incorporate? So that we might have a common trading place with facilities that we each individually, as well as our successors, might gain the benefits through the markets and raising our land values on account of their being located nearer the said village. Somebody paid the expenses of that incorporation, somebody devoted their time and efforts securing the signers to the petition, somebody paid the Burlington $3,000 to lay the switch tracks here, somebody gave the very ground for the streets upon which we travel, somebody's conceiving made it possible for us to have churches, schools, an opera house, stores, elevators, a bank, private telephone lines for our convenience and a band all for our entertainment.

Now if such interest was taken at the outset and such trials and energies put forth why not keep the same spirit living today and prove to those originators we really appreciate their labors, and show our interest in its welfare? For if it were not for their thoughtfulness we would be obliged perhaps to travel for miles to get the same accommodations and have to deal with strangers who have no interest in our success. Then confine the order to the waste basket and when leaving town you'll say:

Good-bye dear old West Brooklyn town

Good-bye dear old village

My help belongs to you dear town

No matter where I stray.

Then I'll be true to you, for you

There's not a single doubt

For when you leave old Brooklyn town

You're only camping out.
